Planning:

The Energy Consents Unit of the Scottish Government determines planning applications for Wind Farms of over 50MW capacity (including most of the new applications and repowering on Skye). Also will determine the planning application for the Skye Reinforcement power line.

To view documents, and make a comment or objection on the planning application for particular wind farm or power line visit www.energyconsents.scot and then use the search function to find the application. Objections can be made to the ECU by emailing them at Econsents\_Admin@gov.scot. - quoting the name of the development and the ECU reference number...or you can create an account with the ECU and then fill in the representation form online.

The Highland Council would decide planning applications on “smaller” Wind Farms (less than 50MW) such as Ben Sca, and the original Edinbane and Ben Aketil. They are a Consultee on larger developments so could register an objection with the Energy Consent Unit for any of the large wind farms proposed.

You can search for planning applications and documents and sign up for an account to make comments and objections here:
